

Roopali:

I was introduced to the concept of Right Brain Activity for the first time around May this year. I have been a corporate trainer in an insurance sector most of my working life prior to training with children of impressionable age. The training imparted by Respond Right Education opened up a new spectrum which could be explored where children could experience the joy of learning without being taxed. After the grueling training and mock sessions by RRE I was finally ready to train myself. The idiom "Child is the Father of man" holds true as I gradually realized that the children I was training were giving me new insights into their world.

We initially began by giving demonstration classes to parents and children. In one such demo class the mother was surprised how her daughter who otherwise wouldn't sit still for more than 5 minutes sat through the entire session without any hassle. Once the classes commenced I began by assisting a teacher in her first class of 3-4.5 yrs kids. It was an amazing experience, as children would pay rapt attention to whatever activity was being conducted. They responded with great enthusiasm to most of the flash cards and songs too.

Thereafter, I soon started with my first batch of 4.5-6 yr olds. They were a bundle of joy to begin with. From the beginning of the class i.e. with the Greeting to the Energy Absorption, various Flash Cards to Mandala and Rhythmic they absorbed it all.

Without imposing too much information in a span of an Hour the children now have a flair for different topics. The smile on the faces of these children make my day and I just wait for the next. The children reciprocate by attending regularly with joy and have not missed a single class. Their attention span has increased and so has their awareness to details. I hope I am able justify the parents expectations who so lovingly bring their child to the class each week. Indeed, the enthusiasms the children have are channelized in the best possible way through the curriculum. Thanks to Respond Right Education the future of children are in safe hands.
